

- · High-end geek players balance their size, performance and ease of use.
- Entry level player, software engineer, hardware diy using familiar language.

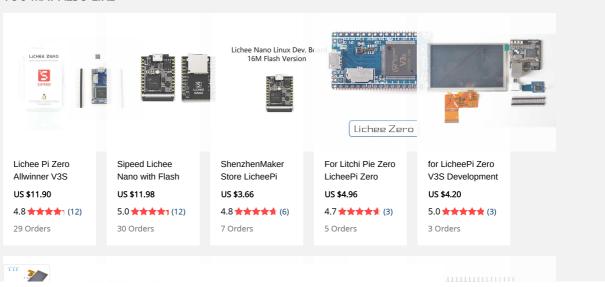

Development board features

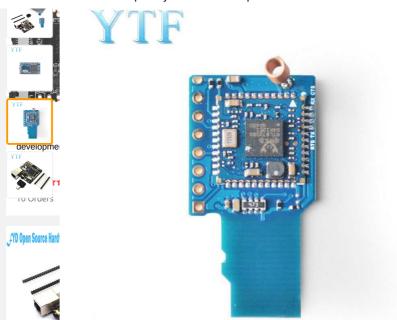

- Based on Allwinner V3s (ARM Cortex-A7 CPU, 1.2GHz, 512Mbit DDR2 integrated)
- Bootable from onboard SPI Nor Flash (SOP8 16MB / WSON8 32MB) or TF card
- Support multiple development languages
- · Straight into the breadboard, while the full-stamp stamp hole leads out
- · Low-speed peripherals UART, SPI, I2C, PWM, ADC
- High-speed interface OTG USB, MIPI CSI, EPHY, RGB LCD
- Reserve flash interface, TF card slot
- FPC40Can be connected to RGB LCD, VGA adapter board, high speed DAC module
- FPC24Can be connected to DVP camera, high speed ADC module
- · Camera interface DVP+MIPI
- The development board integrates a variety of peripherals: audio port, microphone, multi-button, network port, etc.

The core board comparison expansion board reduces some peripherals. Customers can connect peripherals by flying lines according to their own needs. The core board is relatively more streamlined than the expansion board. It can even be directly attached to the board.
